Former CIA Chief To Join Illinois College Faculty

Mrs. George B. Ziegler has been appointed instructor in political science at Illinois College beginning with the fall semester of the 1965 - 66 academic year, according to an announcement by President L. Vernon Caine.

An author and a former Central Intelligence Agency branch chief, she holds the A.B. degree from Monmouth College and the M.A. degree from the University of Chicago.

Married and the mother of three children, her husband is director of personnel at Capitol Records Corp. in Jacksonville.

Upon graduation from Monmouth, Mrs. Ziegler taught at Joliet, Ill. before accepting a post in Washington, D.C. as a congressional secretary. She joined the C.I.A. in 1943 and served in London, Cairo, Istanbul, and Washington until 1950.

She has been an editorial assistant for International Textbook Co. in Scranton, Pa. Active in the League of Women Voters, she is a member of Sigma Omicron Mu scholastic society, Sigma Tau Delta honorary English society, and holds life membership in the Parents-Teachers Association.

She edited The Illinois Voters Handbook, 1962, and Our Local Governments (Will County, Ill.), 1960.

According to President Caine, an additional seven or eight faculty and staff members will be added next year at Illinois College, because of a steady increase in student enrollment. The new men's residence hall now under construction will be completed in time to house 107
